

Low-code development platforms allow the creation of application software through graphical user interfaces and configuration instead of traditional procedural computer programming. These platforms focus on design and development of databases, business processes, or user interfaces for the development of complex software such as business web or mobile applications.

<http://lcsummerschool.istar.iscte-iul.pt>

ISTAR  IUL
Information Sciences, Technologies and Architecture Research Center

ISCTE  IUL
Instituto Universitário de Lisboa

 outsystems